

UPCOMING PROGRAMS IMI US

IMI continues to offer its high-level strategic and timely digital & inkjet industry information resources via online conferences and courses – incorporating both on-site and web-based components as dictated by the regulatory, societal, and industry needs.

IMI will also be adding significant new online content. We are excited to offer new options in the digitization of the information transfer industry.

IMI's mission has always been to provide the latest digital print and inkjet technology, market, and applications information to the broadest possible cross section of industry participants. Based on the current world order of expanded virtual services; IMI will be broadening its information resources via multiple methods – Stay Tuned for More Announcements!
